Pediatric Critical Care Medicine

Highlights of 2012 and plans for 2013

Pediatric Section Business Meeting
January, 2013
SCCM Congress

Patrick M. Kochanek, MD
Editor
Pediatric Critical Care Medicine in 2012

PCCM just completed its 13th year of publication

The most important developments in 2012

1. A further increase in impact factor reaching 3.129
2. PCCM ranked 9th out of 115 pediatric journals
3. A high immediacy index among pediatric journals
4. Rapidly rising citations of articles published in PCCM—for two consecutive years
5. Submissions rising with 445 from 42 countries in 2012
6. Acceptance rate continues to decrease now at 25%
7. Average time from submission to first disposition was 26 days
8. Publication of the Guidelines for the Medical Management of Severe TBI and several outstanding abstract supplements from relevant meetings
9. Circulation—stable at about 2000 for 8 years
10. Institutional subscriptions (Ovid) have increased ~70% in 5 years and Ovid page views increased 60% in 2012
11. Over 240,000 visitors to PCCM website in 2012
12. PCCM online mobile device use increased >300% in 2012
13. Launch of the iPad App version in 2012
Pediatric Critical Care Medicine in 2013

Developments

1. Expansion from 6 to 9 issues per year including new issues in February, June, and October of 2013
2. A “new look” for PCCM including cover format, font, and layout
3. A new section on Quality and Safety
I am again honored to continue to serve as editor of Pediatric Critical Care Medicine

Thanks to the SCCM pediatric section members for your support!
